Terrible Acts of Cruelty Performed by Wey-

Havana, Oct. 6.—Lieutenant-Colonel Granados reports that shortly after his colthe immense number of sharks, which get hold of the bodies and leave no trace. The families of officers living in Morro Castle and the Cubans have made cries they hear late in the night. The cries are attributed to prisoners ill-treated and the police of the presence of two dead bodies on September 23. These bodies were to bullet wounds on people. One showed a bullet wound in the back and the other in the chest. The other stomach and chest and in the loin and several bayonet wounds in the body and throat. Their hands were tied behind their backs and pieces of rope were tied to their necks. The bodies seemed to have been in the water for some time, and putrefaction had begun. The who were driven away

CZAR WELCOMED BY HIS FRENCH FRIENDS.

Ali Paris Turns Out to Cheer the Royal Visitor and His Wife.

The Couple Met at Versailles by President Faure and Escorted to Paris.

Procession, Composed Largely of Soldiers, Escorts the Visitors Through the Streets.

THE CZAR HOLDS A RECEPTION.

Meets Visitors at the Russian Embassy—Banquet Given at the Palace of the Elysee in the Evening.

Paris, Oct. 6.—The weather was clear and sunny this morning and the streets were literally jammed with people, many of whom had remained in their places all night in order that they might have an opportunity of getting a glimpse of the Czar and Carolina as the imperial visitors passed through the streets on their way to the Russian Embassy. The entire route from the special station at Passy-Ranelagh to the Russian Embassy was packed with people long before 8 o'clock.

The route across the Bois de Boulogne, through the Avenue de Bois de Boulogne, Place de l'Etoile, Avenue des Champs Elysees, Place de la Concorde, across the bridge, down the Boulevard St. Germain and Rue St. Simon to the Russian Embassy, in Rue de Grenelle, was all decorated with magnificent and tasteful arches and pillars. French and Russian colors and brilliant paper flowers, the latter tied to the trees, were everywhere to be seen. The entire route was lined with troops, and by 8:30 o'clock the brilliancy of the scene and the size of the crowds had never been equalled in Paris.

President Faure, in a special train, went to Versailles, where he met the Czar and Carolina this morning. The special train conveying the Russian visitors arrived at Versailles at 8:43 o'clock. The Czar and Carolina, after being greeted by President Faure, entered the latter's train, which proceeded for Paris.

Hearty Welcome in Paris.
The special train with the Czar and Carolina and President Faure arrived here at 10 o'clock, and the visitors were enthusiastically cheered by the vast crowd of people packing every available space, 20, 000 of whom slept in the Bois de Boulogne all night in order that they might get places in the front of the crowds.
The imperial visitors entered the reception tent, outside of which a gala carriage, with four horses, attended by postillions, awaited them. The reception over, the Czar and Carolina and President Faure entered the carriage, the President occupying the front seat, with his back to the horses.
The various officials, members of the Czar's suite and others formed in procession behind, and the cortege proceeded at a walking pace to traverse the streets to the Russian Embassy.

The Carolina wore a white satin dress with a cape and a small bonnet. The Czar was attired in a military uniform. Their Majesties followed President Faure to the state carriage. M. Faure wore the sash of the Legion of Honor. The bands played the Russian National Hymn as the procession started.

Scattered in the Streets.
The procession was headed by a body of Arab officers and a double line of soldiers, sables and Toulousiens troops. Members of every French regiment were included in the troops that lined the route and hedged the crowds in.

When the Czar stepped into the carriage there were many cries of "Vive l'Empereur!" but the cries were not unanimous and their repetition was not invited. As a whole, the assemblage at the start was stiff in its manner and did not indulge in any great degree of exuberant enthusiasm, but as the procession advanced the abundant enthusiasm became more pronounced.

This feeling rapidly increased as the cortege passed through the Bois de Boulogne, and at the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne the vast crowds became ecstatic. From this stage of the Czar's advance until the Russian Embassy was reached there was one continuous roar of cheers.

Attended Church Services.
The Czar and Carolina took luncheon privately at the Russian Embassy, and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon took a carriage and drove to the Russian church in the Rue Darn, where a Te Deum was sung.
Later their Majesties were driven to the palace of the Elysee, where they visited President Faure. The routes to the church and to the palace were lined with people, who gave a respectful but intensely enthusiastic ovation to the nation's guests.

President Faure gave a reception in their honor at the palace, and the Czar later gave a reception at the Russian Embassy, where President Faure returned the visit of the Czar and Carolina.

The Carolina, in response to the cheers of the multitude along the route from the Embassy to the palace and back, bowed graciously at intervals, and the Czar was kept constantly busy returning salutations.
The Czar and Carolina were entertained by President Faure at a banquet at the palace of the Elysee this evening, and the Czar and Carolina afterward attended a gala theatrical performance. The entire programme of the day was carried out successfully.

New Astronomical Discoveries.
Boston, October 6.—An official dispatch from Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz., announces that the astronomer there has discovered that the planets Mercury and Venus rotate, once during each revolution around the sun. These planets have each of them a day and a year in each of their years. The observer found, further, that Venus is not cloud-covered, as has been supposed, but is about a thick atmosphere, while Mercury has none.

BLASTED Or MEN.

Dr. Greene's Chickering Hall Powerful Private Lectures to Men.

Miseries of the Victims of Premature Decay, Loss of Strength and Vigor.

THE HOPELESS ENCOURAGED.

The Doctor Handles the Subject Without Gloves. Means Told for Restoration of Vitality and Vigor.

Not only weak and ailing men, but those in health are indebted to Dr.
Greene, of 35 West Fourteenth street, New York City, for his brilliant Chickering Hall lectures.

The weak and ailing because he has pointed out to them the means of recovering their health, strength and vigor; those in health because he has shown the rocks and quicksands where many a gallant life bark has been wrecked.

Dr. Greene was listened to with almost breathless attention by the large audience of men, who felt that they were hearing the words of truth and wisdom fall from the lips of one as eminent for his medical skill as he is distinguished for his discoveries in the domain of remedies and famed for his marvellous cures. In fact, there is no physician in active practice to-day so well fitted, so eminently qualified to discuss the conditions brought about by overwork, imprudence and excesses as Dr. Greene. He has made the causes of the loss of vitality and vigor in men and the condition of debility and premature decay the study of his life, as those who listened to him could easily discern.

Dr. Greene graphically described the gradual processes by which those in possession of health and vigor reach a condition of debility and nervous prostration, the successive steps and stages of decay. Nothing can be more insidious than the approach of this foe of human happiness, the premature decay of the physical powers. It is the more insidious because the fact that it does not manifest itself in any physical disorders, but often in mental deterioration, beginning with melancholia and hypocondriasis. There is a loss of spirits, the subject is overshadowed by gloom and there is an ever present apprehension of impending disaster. The intimate connection of the body and mind is thus shown, the decay of the physical powers finding its first manifestation in mental disturbances.

As the body must progress the physical disorders show themselves.
The body becomes weak. There is a consciousness of loss of vigor and vitality that causes the utmost alarm.
The heart becomes affected functionally and palpitations ensue, the most fearful condition. Dyspepsia is a feature which frequently introduces itself at this stage, and with it come attacks of dizziness accompanied by drowsiness and an indisposition to exertion. In time stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels become deranged. The strength of the subject sinks at times, pain in the right or left shoulder, or both, and sometimes in the chest and abdomen.

The nervousness increases with every stage of progress and the most fearful imaginings are the result. They produce wakefulness at night, or when sleep comes dreams and visions ensue.
Complete devitalization follows, and though the victim may bear up bravely and under every circumstance maintain his friends the fact that he is paying the penalty for his errors and indiscretions, it is all too apparent to them that there is something wrong with him.
The complexion has lost its healthy tint, the color has gone from the cheeks, the skin has become of a dull leaden or taken on a sickly yellowish tinge that is unpleasant to look upon; the eye has become dull and lifeless, its brightness and sparkle gone, the step has lost its springy elasticity and become feeble and lagging, the face has lost its vivacity and much of its expression, and the erect pose of the form can no more be maintained save by strong physical effort and determination of will, neither of which can be long sustained.

Nature is compelling the victim to honor the drafts he has made on her in the days of his health and vigor. In the pride of his physical power he made at one time the strength of his vital resources and now he would give all he is worth for the privilege of beginning all over again. Repentance has come, and an overwhelming regret that he had not the common sense and the prudence to live rationally and in harmony with the laws of his being and those of society.

But how much increased is the calamity if at this time the victim of im-prudence and indiscretion is engaged to marry! With all his nerves, a constitution devitalized, a prey to mel-ancholia and the blues, without hope, can he contemplate the obligation to which he has committed himself without dread? Impossible. With the conscience of his condition the obligation adds to his misery and increases his misfortune a thousandfold.

But all is not lost. There is still hope, still a road to recovery for even the most desperate case. Dr. Greene now turned to the bright side of the picture and painted that in such glowing colors that there was no further reason for any one to despair. Dr. Greene has made this condition of weakness, of mental and physical debility, the study of his life. Possessed of a brilliant and penetrative mind, an indefatigable researcher and investigator, he has succeeded in discovering the true remedies for the restoration of the weak and suffering. After years of unwarped investigation and experiment he has discovered the only efficacious medicines that have ever been applied successfully to the cure of this weakening and exhausting disease. These wonderful medicines are purely vegetable in their ingredients, and have been so carefully brought together and so skillfully combined that the remedies give a result which never fails to cure the weak and discouraged sufferer, and make him again a strong, vitalized and vigorous man.

Dr. Greene is admitted to be the most eminent, distinguished and successful specialist in curing these complaints.
His marvellous cures are universally known, and are the theme of comment in every section of the country. He has cured the most desperate cases and he can cure you. Although holding a distinguished position in the ranks of Greene, 35 West Fourteenth street, New the symptoms in detail. After he has George Du Maurier.

The man who gained fame and wealth by writing and illustrating "Tri-by" is critically ill. He is suffering from lung and heart trouble, and is not likely to recover.

found at Guama and Cantabria a Spanish column, surrounded by 3,000 rebels, who had been sent by Maceo to attack the Spaniards. Lieutenant-Colonel Granados made a vigorous attack upon the enemy, who fired twelve cannon shots at close range. A prompt retreat to Cantabria saved Granados's command, as well as the Spanish troops which had been surrounded.
The Spanish forces were united at Cantabria, and in the meantime the rebels had taken positions at Loma Blanca. The united Spanish forces made an attack upon the rebels, who were dislodged from their positions after a fight lasting five hours.
The rebels lost eighty killed and a large number of wounded. The Spaniards had twelve killed and ninety-two wounded, including four officers. Lieutenant-Colonel Granados started to march back to Pinar del Rio, when at 3 p. m. he heard cannonading on the other side of the hills.

A fierce engagement occurred at Teja del Negro between a force of 700 Spanish troops under General Bernal and the forces of Maceo. The rebels occupied good and extensive positions. The battle began at 9 o'clock in the morning. The Cubans made a stubborn defence, but were finally dislodged with a loss of 100 killed. It is said that when they retired they carried away 200 wounded. The Spanish losses were:
Lieutenant-Colonel Romero and General Bernal's adjutant, killed; Lieutenant-Colonel Chazal and eight other officers wounded; eighteen privates killed and sixty-five wounded.

Spaniards' Terrible Crimes.
The office of Chief of Police, corresponding to Colonel of the army, has been given to Commander La Barrera because no Colonel of the army has been willing to accept the office under the conditions of dishonesty and cruelty imposed by Weyer.
Awful crimes are committed every night by order of La Barrera and Governor Porrua, of the same type as La Barrera.
Every night at the police headquarters some prisoners are taken out and put on the books as released. These individuals are guarded by one police delegate and two policemen, and taken, between 1 and 3 a. m., to a landing place at the entrance of the harbor, two blocks away from the police headquarters.

Once there, the prisoners and the three policemen step into a boat and start off; they don't land anywhere, but after a while the officers come back without the prisoners. This action has been watched night after night. From September 1 to 26 sixty-three prisoners have disappeared in this way, drowned outside the Morro. The two last ones were drowned September 24.
They were an old man and a young man.
On stepping into the boat the old man asked where they were bound to. The young man said:

"You know? We are going to be drowned."
The old man gave the young man a blow on the head and started off, and killed him, then started, but the prisoner never came back. From the Cubans and Morro prisoners are taken out and drowned in the same way. The reason why they are taken out of the harbor is on account of
